India's first World Peace Center in Gurugram will be based on principles of Bhagwan Mahavira - Acharya Lokesh

World Peace Ambassador Jain Acharya Lokesh Ji addressing the international conference said that Thousands of years ago, Bhagwan Mahavir gave the principle of Shatjeevikaya which can solve the problems of climate change and environmental degradation, the root cause of violence can be eliminated through programs like peace education. We see that we have become two worlds, a large section of society is living with extreme poverty, the solution to bridge this imbalance was given thousands of years ago in our great heritage, Lord Mahavir himself says 'Asambhivaagi na tat samoah'. But we have to bring these teachings down to earth, on a practical level, the upcoming World Peace Centre in Gurugram will work in that direction. Ahimsa Vishwa Bharti organisation through upcoming World Peace Centre will implement these teachings and traditions.

Co-Founder of Patanjali Yogpeeth Acharya Bal Krishna ji said that Indian culture has given the message of 'Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam' and 'Sarve Bhavantu Sukhin: Sarve Santu: Niramaya' to the world. For some a country world may be a market but for India, world is a family. The whole world needs these messages that were given by great people of India, because we cannot live a peaceful and happy life through war, violence or discord.

Buddhist monk Dipankar Sumedho ji said that there is a need to adopt the values of non-violence, kindness, compassion, humanity, and implement them in our lives. Peace and harmony in the world is possible through the teachings of Bhagwan Mahavir.

Advisor to the US President, Shri Ajay Bhutoria said that India's first World Peace Center established by Ahimsa Vishwa Bharti will be inaugurated this year. There will be a confluence of Indian culture and modern facilities in the World Peace Center. The programs based on peace education and training, personality building through meditation and yoga, women empowerment, culture building of children and youth, environment protection etc. based on Indian culture and Jain lifestyle will run there.

The program was conducted by Col. T.P. Tyagi and Kenu Aggarwal, vote of thanks was presented by Tarkeshwari Mishra. Prem Prakash Gupta, Atul Jain, Mr. Vineet Sharma, Mr. Javed contributed fully in the successful organization of the program.
